no intention to de-escalate," Hanson said. "Their intent is to escalate the situation."

In addition to extra patrol officers, Hanson said motorcycle officers, detectives, the rapid deployment unit, the crowd control team and bicycle team are all on stand-by should a violent situation arise.

Come Sunday, the anniversary of the June 18 riot in which anti-capitalist protestors shattered windows and terrorized motorists, officers will be equipped with some extra tools in addition to the pepper spray, handcuffs and batons usually carried, Hanson said. However, she would not say what those tools would be.

"It's very difficult for us to come out and publicly say what we're doing to combat this behavior," Hanson said.

Protesters are trying to learn police tactics to better provoke an overreaction to the situation, she said.

For the department, there have been signs that point to the rise in aggressive behavior. At a recent march, protesters carried homemade torches that police considered possible catapults for burning material. And in late May, police said anarchists threw acid-filled eggs at the Whiteaker public safety station, scarring the windows, and left behind a calling card of graffiti.

Plus, signs have been posted throughout the city that read, "Destroy the State," "Kill the Pigs," or have depictions of an officer with a gun to his head to promote violence against police, Hanson said.

"We're concerned for our safety and the safety of others as well," Hanson said. "We're not talking about a group of youth who are out sowing their oats. They're out committing serious acts that are violent."

Capt. Thad Buchanan, supervisor of the special operations division, said the police department's response will depend on whatever happens.

"We are trying to match the response to the need," Buchanan said. "Hopefully, the need for police intervention won't develop."

Buchanan said the department is hopeful a group of neutral observers and mediators will help keep the peace. The group made its official debut at the June 1 rally to mark the three-year anniversary of the downtown tree-cutting protest that ended in a haze of tear gas, pepper spray and arrests.

Sunday will be the second test for city's evolving experiment in reducing confrontations between police and protesters, said Greg Rikhoff, Eugene's Human Rights program manager and the coordinator of the neutral observer program.

Close to 30 people have signed on to be observers Sunday, and the drill will be the same. Volunteers will be equipped with pencils, water bottles and sunscreen. Notes will be taken on one of two forms, either observations or to record specific incidents such as physical violence or property damage.

"I've received no indication that people are planning on being violent or that criminal activity will occur," Rikhoff said.

1A.ITM.814

Okay so kids are rolling into town wondering what is going to go down. First of all, keep in mind this is not an amusement park. There will not be a small group on their feet for four days making sure that we are all entertained. We're all in this together. We're going to have to work together, add our own ideas and efforts to collectively create the sum.

We all want the pigs off patrol, so let's practice and improve our abilities to solve our own problems. If problems arise, it is up to us all to eliminate them. If someone is doing something you think is fucked up, call them on it. If action is needed we need to back each other up, work together and take action collectively. If you see somthing that needs to be done, get together with some friends and do it yourselves.

We need to talk to each other, build bonds and affinities and create a level of trust with each other and get an idea of who we can rely on if shit hits the fan. We have no idea who's showing up, how many are showing up or how things are going to work out in the end, and nor does anyone, but that is precisely the point.

The pigs have been acting up over the last couple of months and they've up'd their numbers a bit for the week so we need to keep our eyes open, pay attention, communicate and watch our backs if this is to be succesful. But don't be too paranoid and don't let a possible police presence intimidate us into boredom. It is also important that we don't expel too much energy on the police or allow their mere visibility to distract us from acheiving whatever it is that we want to acheive.

If you're going to pull off some crazy illegal shit, wear masks and keep your mouth shut about it. If you're organizing something along those lines, do so with people you trust and don't go around bragging about shit you could be busted for.

As for camping, we'll be better off in numbers. We're hoping to see tent cities, autonomous zones, semi mobile land squatting caravans etc.. Make new friends, reunite with old ones and interlace our tribes to build tighter networks, communities and support systems to solve our own problems and maintain our squats thru solidarity and mutual aid (cliche).

As for food, Food Not Bombs feeds every day at 4:00p.m. (sometimes it's a bit late). When it is wet and rainy it is served at Washington/Jefferson park at 4th street. When it is sunny and dry it is served at Scobert park (4th & Blair). There is also a food bank at 7th and Van Buren (mon,wed,fri 11am-3pm).

Overall have fun, stick together and make the most of it.

UP THE PUNX!!!

From the Registered guard. wed. Jun 14th

Police add patrols for anarchist rally

By TRICIA SCHWENNESEN
The Register-Guard

The Eugene Police Department has doubled the number of patrol officers working the streets in anticipation of a four-day anti-capitalist "punk fest" scheduled to conclude with a "historical re-enactment" of last year's June 18 riot.

The beefed-up patrols of 24 to 30 officers began Monday and will continue through what activists are calling "Chaos Days 2000," slated to run Wednesday through Saturday. The punk fest is part of a "Seven Week Revolt" by a group called Eugene Active Existence.

"We're not in an overactive state, just a state of preparedness," said Capt. Becky Hanson, supervisor of the patrol division.

Police are monitoring the anarchists' Web site and trying to get a finger on what is planned for the weekend so they can be better prepared. But the details of the activists' plans are sketchy.

Carrie Dougherty, an anarchist

Turn to ANARCHISTS, Page 7D and a festival organizer, said the events scheduled this week lead up to a commemoration of last year's parade, the energy that was started and the anti-capitalist, anti-government movement within the community.

"We're hoping to mix radical politics with cultural celebration," she said.

Details about the punk fest and the re-enactment have been deliberately vague, and neither the lineup of bands nor the location has been publicized, she said.

"The idea is people will find out what's happening when it's happening," Dougherty said. What people can count on is free food, music, speakers and a puppet show re-enactment of last year, she said.

"I think in a lot of ways the police are just waiting for it to happen because they're so excited about busting heads," Dougherty said.

But the police offer a different perspective.

"When you talk to them — to some of the protesters — they have

Cont. on Back

SURNAME

sometime between 11:00am and 12:00pm at Washington/Jefferson park: circle/meeting/get-together

1:00pm at University of Oregon (U of O) EMU Ben Linder Forum (ask around if you don't know where it's at): Stop The Fascist Grand Jury! (Craig Rosenbraugh and Gina Lynn presentation on the Grand Jury and how it attempts to supress radical movements. ALF/ELF perspective)

Also various activities to be determined durring circle around 4:00pm: FNB

sometime after FNB: music/speakers (location TBA at FNB)

Day 4: Saturday, June 17

sometime between 9:00am and 11:00am at 3rd & Blair: Cafe Anarqista

12:00pm: early show. music/speakers. meet at Washington Jefferson park.

7:30pm at the U of O (PLC Room 180 (14th & Kinkaid): SMASH!-Anarchy, Eugene and the WTO (big screen prèmiere of the new full length documentary. Plus a short history of the ruckus in Eugene with footage of the Resist and Exist gathering and the June 18th Eugene Riot!)

The unofficial Day 5: Sunday, June 18th

4:00pm Washington/Jefferson park: CARNIVAL AGAINST CAPITAL (COME CELEBRATE THE ONE-YEAR ANNIVERSARY OF THE GLOBAL DAY OF ACTION THAT SHOOK EUGENE AND 140 CITIES WORLDWIDE!!! PUPPET REANACTMENT OF LAST YEAR. FOOD, MUSIC, SPEAKERS. WAR ON THE COURTS: EPD VS. ANARCHIST B-BALLING FOR NEXT YEAR'S BRAGGING RIGHTS!

2015.049

With that said, here is a tentative schedule of events that are already taking place. EVERYTHING ON HERE IS FREE. DON'T BE TOO PISSED IF ANY OF THIS FALLS THRU.

DAY 1: Wednesday, June 14th

2:00pm at Washington/Jefferson park near the basketball courts: general meeting/circle/get-together for planing, anouncements etc.

around 4:00pm: Food Not Bombs

sometime after FNB: music/speakers (location to be announced at FNB)

Day 2: Thursday, June 15th

sometime beetween 9:00am and 11:00am at 3rd & Blair: Cafe Anarqista (basically what this is is a bunch of folks hanging out and shooting the shit on the curb and drinking free coffee great way to start the day!).

12:00pm at Washington/Jefferson park near the basketball courts: general meeting/circle/get-together sometime after 12:00pm: various activities determined during circle.

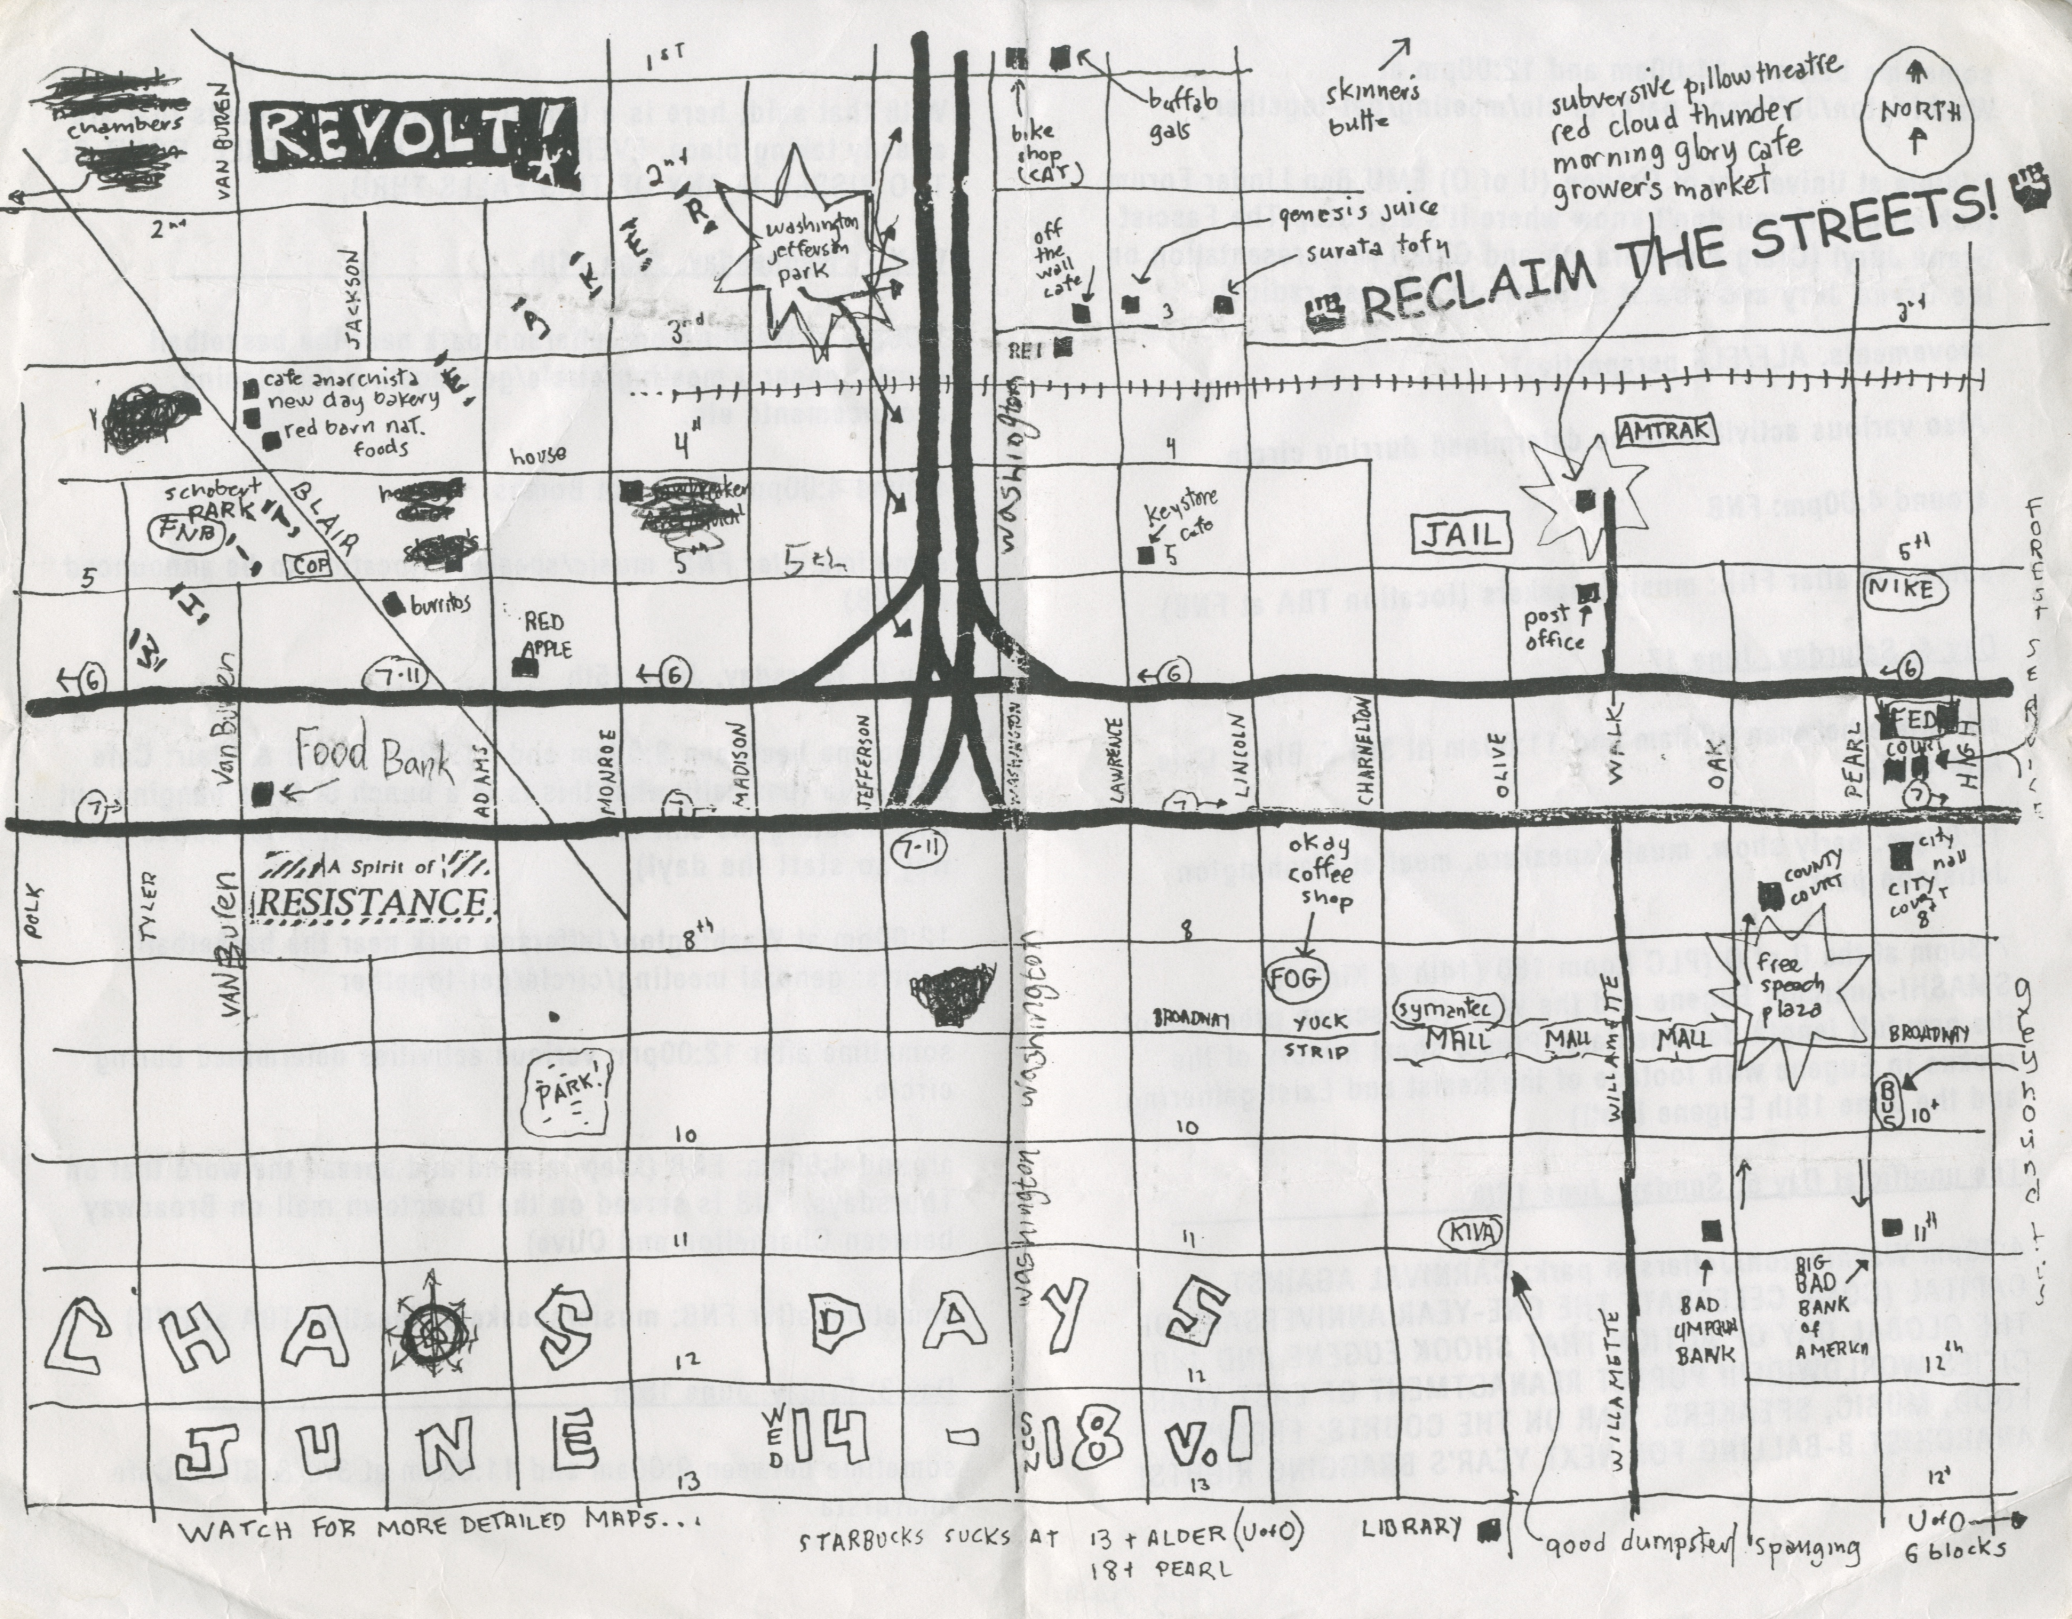
around 4:00pm: FNB (keep in mind and spread the word that on Thursdays, FNB is served on the Downtown mall on Broadway between Charnelton and Olive)

sometime after FNB: music/speakers (location TBA at FNB)

Day 3: Friday, June 16th

sometime between 9:00am and 11:00am at 3rd & Blair: Cafe Anarqista



REVOLT!
chambers
VAN BUREN
1ST
2ND
JACKSON
washington jefferson park bike shop (CAT)
buffalo gals skinner's butte subversive pillow theatre
red cloud thunder morning glory cafe
grower's market
NORTH RECLAIM THE STREETS! off the wall cafe genesis juice surata tofu cafe anarchista new day bakery
red barn nat. foods house schubert PARK
FNB
COP
BLAIR
burritos
RED APPLE
7-11
Food Bank
Van Buren
ADAMS
MONROE
MADISON JEFFERSON WASHINGTON
LAWRENCE
LINCOLN CHARNELTON OLIVE WALK OAK PEARL
HIGH
Keystone Cafe
AMTRAK JAIL post office
NIKE FED COURT
A Spirit of RESISTANCE okay coffee shop
FOG
YUCK STRIP BROADWAY
symantec MALL MALL
MALL
free speech plaza COUNTY COURT city hall
CITY COURT
BOS
KIVA WILLAMETTE BAD UMPQUA BANK
BIG BAD BANK of AMERICA PARK
POLK
TYLER
CHASE
JUNE
WED 14 - SAT 18
VOL
WATCH FOR MORE DETAILED MAPS...
STARBUCKS SUCKS AT 13 + ALDER (U of O)
181 PEARL
LIBRARY good dumpster spanging
U of O
6 blocks